Copenhagen, June 4, N. S.

THE Ruſſian Flute is gone from hence towards the North Sea. She ſtopped here to take in freſh Water, which after ſome Conſideration was permitted; the Precautions againſt the Sickneſs not being meant to affect all Ships coming from the Baltick, but only thoſe from Dantzick, Konigsberg, and the neighbouring Ports. Since the laſt Poſt the Margravine has had a Feveriſh Indiſpoſition, which it was apprehended her Diſorder would turn to. Her Illneſs ſeems to increaſe, ſo that a Journey which their Daniſh Majeſties intended to have taken this Week to Walloe, has been put off on that Account; yet as ſhe is only attended by a Phyſician of the Court, no extraordinary Aſſiſtance being called in from the Town, the Danger is not thought to be extreme.

Dreſden, June 5, N. S. Some Days ago a Meſſenger arrived from Conſtantinople, ſent by M. Stadnicki, the Poliſh Miniſter at the Ottoman Porte, with the News of his having been admitted to an Audience of the Sultan; and that the Porte have reſolved to ſend a Miniſter to compliment our Elector upon his Acceſſion to the Crown of Poland. A Meſſenger is alſo lately arrived here with a Letter from M. Tahlman, the Imperial Miniſter, wherein he deſires, in the Name of the Emperor, his Poliſh Majeſty's Leave, that the Plenipotentiaries appointed for the treating of a Peace between the Turks and Ruſſians may hold their Congreſs at Niemierow in the Palatinate of Podolia, the Turks having already agreed to it. M. Tahlman's Letter preſſes a ſpeedy Conſent on the Part of this Court, which is look'd upon as a Mark that both the Turks and the Emperor are inclined to Peace. According to the laſt Letters from the Ukraine, the Siege of Oczakow, which was talked of two Months ago, is not yet begun; but the Ruſſians are on their March, have paſſed the Boryſthenes, and are going to form the Blocade of the ſaid Town.

Hague, June 11, N. S. Count Uhleſeld, the Emperour's Miniſter here, has lately delivered to the States General a Memorial, wherein he very earneſtly preſſes them to regulate the Commerce of theſe Provinces with the Auſtrian Low Countries by ſettling a new Tariff. The States of Holland are to aſſemble To-morrow, probably to deliberate thereupon. M. Van Hoey is expected here the latter End of this Week from Paris.
